Notes:

*Students have flexibility in the selection of Core Curriculum courses based on the university class schedule.

History majors may plan their degree programs to enhance their area of interest:

Public History

Public history may be broadly defined as using the past to serve the present. It is appropriate for History majors who are considering career options other than teaching or law. Such options include archivist, museum curator or administrator, manager of historic properties, editing and publishing, policy analysis, government service, urban and regional planning, intelligence analyst, etc.

Pre-Law

History is an outstanding major for those considering careers in law. The reading, writing and critical thinking skills that history students develop are excellent preparation for the rigors of law school. The major can be supplemented with a Legal Studies Certificate.

Graduate Study

For students interested in pursuing graduate studies in history, the emphasis in their undergraduate studies will depend on their specific interests—e.g. modern Europe, recent America. Students should use electives to build a strong cognate in a complementary area: e.g., languages, English, philosophy, economics, religious studies or political science. Those considering an advanced degree in history should consult their advisor for help selecting coursework and applying to graduate schools.

Intelligence

Another area with growing career opportunities is intelligence. Agencies view an undergraduate major in History as an important area of preparation for careers in intelligence analysis.

Other Requirements:

- Exit interview
- Mini-portfolio

Advising

Students must meet with their academic advisor each semester to have their advising hold removed. This meeting is required in order to register for classes for the upcoming term.
